Charlie and Me in Val-Paradis

By Maureen Cashman

The author installs herself in the small town of Espagnac-St-Eulalie in the French countryside with her Australian poodle and together they share many experiences and discover a life in paradise.

Maureen Cashman was born in Sydney in 1945. She has been a teacher, bureaucrat, traveller, and writer. She and Charlie, her poodle, currently live in Canberra but hope to take off on another adventure soon.
